

MADE IN BROOKLYN

Film Screening Series at Two Moon Art House and Café
315 Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn, NY 11215
(631) 559-2852 • Between 2nd and 3rd St in Park Slope •
twomoonbklyn.com
Three Sunday Afternoons in April, Filmmakers in Person
$5 Donation Requested

Sunday, April 7, 2013 at 3PM

COLD SHUTDOWN: FUKUSHIMA ONE YEAR AFTER
by Martin Lucas

When a group of older women from fallout-covered Fukushima occupy the grounds of the Ministry of Trade in Tokyo they become the spearhead of a new kind of anti-nuclear movement. Parents, teachers, and local activists struggle to protect the lives of their children and themselves, setting up radiation testing sites, and children's health and food distribution centers and creating alternative information networks to counter government policies.

Sunday, April 14, 2013 at 3PM

HOUSE DEVIL, STREET ANGEL
by Fivel Rothberg

Inspired by the feminist tenet, "the personal is political," this autobiographical documentary looks at the filmmaker's relationships with his son and father. An intensely personal experience, the film asks viewers to question notions of abuse, fatherhood and masculinities as multiple generations of fathers and sons pursue their own directions.

Sunday, April 28, 2013 at 3PM

JUGGLING GENDER: Politics, Sex and Identity & STILL JUGGLING
by Tami Gold

A loving portrait of Jennifer Miller, a lesbian performer who lives her life with a full beard. Miller works as a performance artist, circus director, clown and as the "bearded lady" in one of the only remaining sideshows in America. In public she is often mistaken for a man, an experience she handles with the wit and intelligence.

"A remarkable video... Rotating masculinity and femininity the way some folk change shoes, Miller confronts gender every time she hits the streets." - Manohla Dargis

